

Successful Orientations	Yes	No
Does your program include:
Your organization's culture and philosophy?
Program evaluation by current staff?
Assessment of goals?
Use of interactive technology?
Department interfacing?

If you responded "Yes" to three or more questions, your program contains various components that provide a solid foundation for successfully orientating all employees.

If you responded "No" to three or more questions, benefits may be realized from a program that is geared toward addressing and fulfilling goals of numerous audiences within your organization and presenting a program that can potentially fulfill company standards, such as lowering employee turnover and costs, and increasing motivation and retention.
